At RMS it was Trunk and Treat

By Jean Perry

They might call it "Trunk or Treat," but at Rochester Memorial School on October 20, it could have been called "Trunk and Treat" with the way some of the participants treated the kids to an entire Halloween experience in itself from the back of their vehicles that sunny late Saturday afternoon.

Spooky music, talking ghoulish dolls, creepy lights and sound effects – some trunks were a virtual haunted house, while others offered an interactive experience with games of spin the wheel, mini golf, corn hole, the claw machine, and even a blind hand grab into a bowl of worms (spaghetti).

The PTO last year was looking for something new to do as a Halloween treat, and one of the parents had attended one nearby with her family. The first Trunk or Treat last year was a great time, says PTO member Jamie Alves, and about eight or nine decorated cars lined the RMS parking lot.

"The kids had a blast," said Alves. "This year it got a little bit bigger – we had 15 cars! And, again, the kids had a blast! It was really nice to see everyone enjoying themselves."

As Rochester residents know, Rochester is a town with narrow country roads that turn very dark at night.

"Rochester is a tricky place to go trick or treating," said Alves. "So we said, what a great way for them to trick or treat and in a safe area," said Alves – at RMS, in the parking lot with no cars passing on dark streets, no fear.

There couldn't have been fewer than a hundred families there that night, Alves said.

And who else was there? Why, Santa and Mrs. Claus, of course, offering everyone the terrifying reminder that Christmas was only 65 days away, and now even closer as you read this (54 days as of this Thursday)! Danielle and Eddie Riggs made this Halloween 'merry,' joined by a few select skeletons instead of the usual elves and handing out candy canes to trunk-or-treaters instead

On the Cover: Merry Halloween! – What's scarier than the realization that Christmas is only 65 days away? (Only 54 as of Thursday!) On Saturday, October 20, Mr. and Mrs. Claus (AKA Eddie and Danielle Riggs) crashed the Halloween party at Rochester Memorial School's Trunk or Treat event, handing out candy canes to delight the kids and scaring the rest of us with the realization that it's nearly Christmas. Photo by Jean Perry of the usual Halloween treats.

Judging by the way the event has doubled in size in just one year and the elaborate tricked-out trunks, expect this particular event to evolve over time.

"We already have plans to make it better next year," Alves said, adding that she recognized a few families from other towns nearby. "The more, the merrier!" said Alves. "It's meant to be a community event, and it was, actually!"

Stitches of Kindness Aid Explosion Victims

By Marilou Newell

When Samantha Nichols opened up storage units her mother left behind, she was a bit overwhelmed by the volume of craft materials they contained. Nichols, a Wareham resident, said her mother, LouCynda Barker, formally of Plymouth, was "an avid crafter." Nichols donated volumes of craft materials to the Plymouth Council on Aging (COA) after her mother passed away last December, and then asked the Marion Council on Aging (COA) if they would take some.

Karen Gregory, director of the Marion Council on Aging, received bins of knitted squares and immediately thought of Edna Bento, a resident of Little Neck Village in Marion and an avid crafter.

In short order, Bento sewed together the squares and made no less than seven full-sized afghans.

"I've been knitting and crocheting since I was six years old," said Bento, having learned from her mother. When she saw the tubs of squares, she thought, "I'd hate for these to go to waste," noting the craftsmanship and the time the maker had employed in their creation.

When The Wanderer reached Bento, she said, "There will be another group of four afghans before all the squares are used up."

Bento also teaches handicrafts at the Marion COA and enjoys attending various functions and activities offered there five days a week.

"I had a ball putting those squares together," she said.

Once completed with the help of Betsy Haggerty, resident coordinator of services at Little Neck Village, the two ladies' labors of love were delivered to the Andover Public Health Nurse who was coordinating donations for the victims of the recent massive gas explosions in Merrimack Valley, many of whom lost everything.

"Their eyes lit up when they saw those afghans,"

"My mother took great pleasure in helping others," said Bento.

Shark Expert a Big Catch for Sippican Fundraiser By Shawn Sweet

Sixth grade events can be costly at Sippican School in Marion. The expenses associated with the annual events planned for this year's 6th grade class are anticipated to run an estimated $22,000. To offset the financial burden to parents, there's a great amount of fundraising involved. For the first time in years, the Sippican 6th grade class is hosting an alternate to the typical car wash or sponsored dinner night at a local restaurant, a fundraiser big enough to be held in the auditorium at Old Rochester Regional High School.

Behind the fundraising is the 6th Grade Parent Group, comprised of 20 parents and led by two co-chairs.

Sippican kindergarten teacher Marti Medeiros and Marion School Committee Vice Chairman Kate Houdelette have taken on the co-chair responsibilities for 2018-2019. Always trying to come up with new fundraising options, the group recently met to brainstorm.

"People came with great ideas for fundraising activities on top of activities that are typically done each year," said Medeiros.

However, one particular parent, Kim Skomal, had a new and promising proposal: have her husband hold an admission-for-entrance presentation. Smart idea, since he is a sought-after charismatic speaker, routinely drawing in large crowds. Her husband? Shark expert and Discovery Channel personality, Dr. Gregory Skomal.

Grateful and supportive, the 6th Grade Parent Group quickly welcomed the idea and then took it a step further by opening it to the Tri-Town community. The Skomals have since organized a speaking event with the intent to fill all 550 seats of the high school's auditorium. Mrs. Skomal noted her appreciation for the alternate and more sizable venue.

"Thank you to ORR High School Principal Mike Devoll for letting us use the auditorium for our fundraising event," Mrs. Skomal shared.

According to Medeiros, the students are also active participants in the fundraising.

"While the parents are volunteering to chaperone and lead different events, the 6th graders are called upon to help volunteer as well, whether selling candy at a dance, helping run small craft groups at a Kids Night Out event, or selling from the Charleston Wrap fundraising event," Medeiros said.

Even with the amount of hard work and organization involved with the all the fundraising efforts, the students remain engaged with activities to look forward to.

"I think the dances are a lot of fun for them," Houdelette added. "The shark talk will be fantastic."

The fundraising allows for things such as yearbooks, an end of the year 6th grade breakfast, t-shirts, and one of the most anticipated events of the year: Mountain Classroom when, in May, 6th graders spend three nights in Gorham, New Hampshire, learning while in nature, as well as gaining environmental awareness. Hiking and team building activities are at the root.

Dr. Skomal is a busy man, balancing his position as a senior biologist with the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries, his speaking engagements, his numerous appearances on Discovery's Shark Week, along with his research and shark tagging for the Atlantic Shark Conservancy, but he remains a husband and father first.

"I'm doing this fundraiser because I am a parent of a 6th grader who firmly believes that is it important to provide these students with as many opportunities as possible," said Dr. Skomal. "I hope to make that happen."

The drive may be different for this presentation, but nonetheless, it will be his fourth in the Tri-Town, as he's spoken as part of several other events. Since moving to Marion in 2010, Dr. Skomal has been an engaged community member. He's a Sippican Lands Trust board member and has also served as an assistant coach to more than one of his son's baseball teams. And while he is an expert in the field, published author, television personality, and public speaker, to one 6th grader, he's simply Dad.

"I think it's cool that my dad is helping to raise money for my 6th grade class trips. I hope my friends like his shark talk," said Wilson Skomal.

Newcomers to the various 6th grade activities, with Wilson being their eldest child (they also have a 3rd grader, Eve), the Skomals want to experience as much as possible, and plan to volunteer as chaperones throughout the year.

With 30-plus years in the field and no signs of slowing down, Dr. Skomal is still driven by his endless curiosity in the fish he studies and his passion for breaking new ground. His reputable career, combined with the public's growing shark fear and fascination, have the makings for not only a successful fundraiser, but also a fun and informative night. Honestly, how could it disappoint? This world-renowned scientist works up close and personal with sharks on a regular basis and they are becoming more and more prevalent in our nearby waters.

In addition to a PowerPoint presentation, Dr. Skomal teases, "Never before seen videos and cool fun poets and moviemakers – poets and all manners of visual arts – were paired, studied, and understood more fully when Dr. Josephine Yu gave an insightful and inspiring presentation titled "Sister Acts: A Discussion of Poetry and Paintings" on October 19 at the Mattapoisett Public Library.

Yu, a professor at Keiser University in Fort Lauderdale, earned her BA and MFA at Georgia State University before moving to Florida to pursue her PhD at Florida State University. Her awards span such notable achievements as 2016 winner of the Judge's Prize Elixir Press Poetry Award, 2008 Best New Poets Award, 2013

Ploughshares Emerging Writer Contest, and three times nominated for a Pushcart Prize, to name a few.

Yu's style of public speaking and subject matter is a mixture of warmth, humor, empathy, anger, forgiveness, and nearly all other varieties of human emotion coupled with a deep appreciation and understanding of art in general.

Picking both well-known works of art as well as other artistic forms such as photography and film, Yu asked the audience to go deeper into the visual works through the words of poets.

She carried the participants down the road where cognition and emotion cross paths, thus generating a fuller sense of being present with the artists.

For the 16th Century painting "Landscape with the Fall of Icarus" by Pieter Bruegel the Elder, Yu examined the poem "Musée des Beaux Arts" by W. H. Auden. She directed the attention of the attendees to how small and insignificant Icarus appeared in the lower right corner of the canvas, a mere antidote to the larger theme of "life goes on." Auden wrote of the much larger farmer in the center of the frame, "but for him it was not an important failure." The mistakes of youth and ambition pale against a larger canvass of decades of living where success and failure are inevitable.

Yu also focused on abstract art in the form of

Michael Goldberg's "Sardines" against the poem of Frank O'Hara, "Why I am Not a Painter."

"This is a story of the process," said Yu, for both painting and writing, and how one can influence the other, while maintaining creative independence, and also how "art may look spontaneous," but is really carefully crafted.

Later in her presentation, she discussed Poet Laureate Natasha Tretheway's book Bellocq's Ophelia, reading three separate pieces that explored race, power, a woman's role in society, strength, and fragility.

The presentation was a tour de force in bringing visual arts and poetic passages into a deeper context and the extent to which humans attempt to express themselves – to reach out and touch one another.

On Saturday, October 20, Yu read her own works from her book Prayer Book of the Anxious, published by Elixir Press.

The voice of the writer is never more expressive and vulnerable than when reading his or her own words, and that sensitivity and courage was on full display.

Yu's writing brings the reader into the fullness of human experience from the profound to the sublime and everything in between. In her poem Ocean, it begins with an October coastline; as a first-time visitor to Mattapoisett, Yu thought this selected piece apropos. Her voice seemed to rise and descend on ocean currents, "I experiment with the lives I invent...maybe hiding myself."

In other works, her Catholic upbringing and her mother's devout faith were given a presence as Yu referenced saints and their religious attributes to drive home emotions of anger, loss, and forgiveness.

"I'm interested in how we use stories to heal us through myth and fable," Yu said.

Yu is a very generous writer, introducing selections from other writers she thought the audience might enjoy, including one from Marion poet Elizabeth Farrell.

Yu said in closing, "There is no greater wish I could have than to have my book be appreciated."

Copies of Yu's latest book are available at the Mattapoisett Public Library and for sale online on book buying websites.

over our heads, along roadside travels, or perched on the roofs of neighborhood barns and buildings, is actually classified as a rock dove. It is named for nesting and perching on rocky ledges, and under bridges and outcroppings. Not native to this country, it is a descendant of birds brought to Nova Scotia by the French in the early 17th century. In all this time, they have proliferated far and wide into residential farm country and, more noticeably, into cities, public squares especially, where the frequent refuse of messy habits has devalued their presence in the eyes of metropolitan bird watchers. There now on ledges of skyscrapers, pairs of nesting peregrine falcons are a welcomed predation to limit pigeon proliferation.

Early American avian history of proliferation also goes back to the tragic tale of extinction of the native passenger pigeon. It was perceived in unlimited abundance by John James Audubon, who described flocks that stretched for miles, passing overhead in the sky. He estimated that such a flock contained over a billion birds. We had to later learn a hard lesson of the ultimate environmental peril of perceived over abundance.

Replacement reproduction of such large numbers is usually a slower recovery process by comparison, especially for the pigeon. A nesting pair is limited to two eggs at a time, and chicks raised slowly are painstakingly fed by parents with a regurgitated white fluid mixture of grain and water known as "pigeon milk," as in my illustration.

Rock dove squabs (common pigeons under 4 weeks old) have historically been raised for many human purposes, particularly as carrier pigeons with a heroic purpose in wartime. It was possible to relay a written message on light paper inserted into a small tube tied to one leg.

Early Romans are said to have sent reports of Caesar's conquest of Gaul back to Rome via pigeon, and news of Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo back to England as well. In the two World Wars, carriers on the frontlines were decorated with the English Dickin medal, the highest honor given to an animal in service during wartime, and the French Croix de guerre for saving human lives with their homing instincts. They also played a vital role in the invasion of Normandy as radio messages were apt to be intercepted by the enemy.

How this life saving homing instinct is inherent in their brains is explained in recent National Geodetic research. It discovered pigeons could detect low frequency infrasound waves from magnetic earth fields with the help of iron particles above their bills. It was an instinct known as "olfactory navigation." This confirms that wild creatures often have different, and some superior, abilities to humans.

The sport of flying homing pigeons is 3,000 years old and still popular with groups called pigeon fanciers.

White pigeons are still used in dove-releasing ceremonies at weddings, funerals, and some sporting events. This pigeon species has had a historic diversity since almost day one with the Biblical tale of a dove homing to Noah's arc with a laurel branch in its mouth. It conveyed symbolic promise of earthly recovery of dry land for all creatures. This symbol of promise and hope still lives on for us to this very day. May it have a meaning that the cycle planetary momentum of Earth may be able to recover from global warming with our help.

Yes to Marijuana and Stretch Code, Setback Reduction, No

Marion Fall Special Town Meeting

By Jean Perry

Whether they favored or opposed adult recreational cannabis, Marion Fall Special Town Meeting voters on October 22 adopted an Adult Use Marijuana Establishments Bylaw in order for the Town to maintain control over the siting of any potential cannabis-related establishments.

Both sides debated – those who advocated for free access to buy cannabis, those completely opposed, and those in the middle who simply want cannabis sales restricted to the Limited Industrial (LI) zone in the vicinity of Lockheed Martin off Route 6 where medical cannabis has also been zoned.

Article 7 needed a 2/3 majority vote to pass, which it did, 97-27, and the bylaw outlines the locations, special permit requirements, application process, and general municipal oversight of business operations for cannabis operations.

Resident Jennifer Petersen advocated for sales-related revenue for the town, saying, “They do bring revenue and the communities around us are doing ... more progressive bylaws in this area.” She wondered if the Planning Board was attempting to prohibit dispensaries entirely by zoning it where she believed few feasible lots remain.

Planning Board member Eileen Marum replied, “The medical dispensaries [bylaw], which was passed in 2014 was located in the Limited Industrial zone, so it made sense to put the adult use recreational marijuana in the same area – at least 500 feet away from schools, churches, playgrounds, 300 feet away from residences.”

Resident Richard Gregory pointed out that there are no plans in the works for a dispensary and argued that there were very few, if any, lots in the LI zone, saying, “You’re basically ruling marijuana out of Marion. Can you contradict that?”

“It meets the intent of the state bylaws as it is written,” said Planning Board Chairman Will Saltonstall, because a few lots still remain feasible for cannabis.

Helen Westerguard asked, if voters did not pass the article, then what would happen?

Marum told her that cannabis shops could then “set up on any corner.”

“This bylaw will protect us from any vendor just coming in and setting up shop anywhere it wants in ... Marion,” said Marum. She later said that the bylaw had to pass that night in order to meet the December 21, 2018 expiration of the moratorium.

Dr. John Conway opposed marijuana use entirely, saying 18-25 year-olds would be exposed to “risk and side effects” of marijuana, a drug he called “addicting.” He wanted to extend the moratorium instead of adopting a bylaw.

Another resident said she moved here from California and is from Colorado, and rejected Dr. Conway’s claims of addiction and traffic accident increases. She said it was Marion’s loss, since she would be more than happy to travel to Fairhaven and Wareham to purchase her cannabis and bring it home to Marion. She also promised not to give it to kids, saying, “because it's too expensive to share."

"Ever heard of reefer madness?" asked another resident. "Because that's what I'm hearing here tonight. ... You should be supporting the residents of Marion who voted yes to legalizing marijuana, and in this town."

Marum reminded voters that the town was split on the referendum vote, with cannabis legalization passing by just seven votes.

Voters passed Article 6, adopting a new "Stretch Energy Code," taking Marion closer to state designation as a Green Community.

The code is one of five criteria, said Jennifer Francis of the Energy Management Committee, and grant opportunities result in around $140,000 right away, and up to $250,000 annually for energy efficiency initiatives.

Residents had concerns, most of them aired and addressed during prior public hearings and well covered by the local press, but as Finance Committee member Alan Minard pointed out, the new code is only slightly different than the current code.

"I was very leery about the Green Communities Act," said Minard. "I'm convinced that this ... Act no longer requires huge amounts of money to be spent.... No hidden 'you have to do this in order to get to that,'" he continued. "I personally would recommend that we move forward."

Some residents worried about the stipulation that future amendments would have to be followed, but as Francis pointed out, as with all the other state regulations adopted at a town meeting, future state-level amendments must also be followed.

Francis said the average new home construction would cost about $2,000 more, but savings in energy costs would be recouped in 0-5 years with future savings in store.

Sixty-percent of Massachusetts municipalities have achieved Green Community status so far.

Town Administrator Paul Dawson further explained, "At the end of the day, by including this language, you're not really changing anything that we've always done in terms of state laws and regulations."

"These changes ... are not much of a stretch," said Planning Board member Andrew Daniel. "As a builder, I'm all for this."

The new code applies only to new home or commercial constructions.

Voters also approved Article 3 for $55,000 to purchase the electric cars presently leased by the Town (three BMW 13s and one Nissan Leaf) at the termination of the leases. Again, Francis introduced the article, reminding residents how much the four vehicles have saved the town over the past two years – about $35,000 in gasoline and maintenance costs.

After some debate, including the Finance Committee's assertion that buying the four vehicles was likely unnecessary because of the multitude of vehicles the town already owns, the article still passed.

In his rebuttal, Selectmen Chairman Norm Hills countered that the Town only has eight cars, and currently half of them are these electric cars.

"These cars cost us basically nothing for three years – no fuel," said Hills. "I don't see the point of not continuing these fuel-efficient, cheap-to-us vehicles going forward. ... There's nothing to replace them with unless you buy new cars, and right now I don't think that's a good idea or a sound investment."

Resident Steve Nojeim pointed out that each car would cost roughly $14,000. "I think it's a good deal. I think we should do it," he said.

Daniel disagreed, saying the Town should use Green Community grants to buy cars, saying the technology has evolved and newer ones get more miles per charge.

The usage by our town employees is kind of perfect for the usage that they get," said Francis. "The price of these cars [is] very low. [We will get] very good deals on these cars because the dealers just don't want them back." She continued, "I think it's going to be well below [$55,000] when it comes to the time when we make a deal with the dealerships."

The only article to fail that night was Article 13 to amend the Zoning Bylaw to reduce the side and rear setbacks within Residence E, reducing it from 20 feet down to 10 feet.

The article was added to the warrant at the request of resident Sherman Briggs who owns land off Spring Street that he wants to develop into 30 "village-style" housing units, while including three "affordable housing" units in an additional lot, bringing the Town closer to the state affordable housing requirements.

The Planning Board recommended the article and had been working with Briggs for some time to straighten out the path towards an option agreeable to both Briggs and the board, while keeping it from veering off towards a 40B development, which Briggs had threatened in the past.

Planning Board member Steve Kokkins said the amendment intended to provide "quality market-rate multifamily housing" to Marion residents wishing to downsize. "This particular bylaw change is ... the type of layout that would be needed to make a development that was feasible."

Resident Vincent Malkoski said the setback reduction sets a bad precedent, saying the project should go through the appropriate process "instead of amending rules for a developer."

Bob Raymond asked whether an application for a zoning variance was more appropriate for a setback reduction, saying, "Otherwise, a three-story building could be built 10 feet from the property line."

In a follow-up with Briggs on Tuesday, he clarified that the setbacks for his preferred 27-unit single-level house development would have varied with eight units at 15 feet, most at 20, and the three separate affordable units at 10 feet.

"The three affordable houses I needed to build is really where I needed the relief," said Briggs."

Regulations require developers to set aside 10 percent of units built for affordable housing.

Having to comply with 20 feet throughout will change the project significantly, he said.

"I emphasized that this bylaw is making it very, very difficult to do the right thing with the 10 percent affordable component and the 20-foot setbacks," said Briggs. "It's basically forcing the developer to go with a 40B or a 40R."

Now, by right, Briggs says he can build 39 units and comply with the bylaw, but they would have to be stacked multi-level condo-style units "instead of that village effect we all wanted to do," he said.

"This is going to bring in families that are going want to live in a condo-style housing," Briggs said. "It's really another 40B, it's just as-of-right ... under the residence E [zone]. A mix of market-rate rentals or condos."

Voters at the Annual Town Meeting accepted an article to amend the bylaw to re-zone Briggs' property to Residence E in order to develop the land for housing.

Other articles that all passed:

Article 1, requested by the Board of Health, appropriates $500,000 to finance the repair, replacement, and upgrading of failed septic systems. Residents who borrow the funds will repay them in the form of a 20-year betterment, including interest.

Article 2 appropriates $65,000 so the Water Department can buy a 4x4 pickup truck with a plow. The current vehicle the new truck would replace would require extensive work, said selectman Randy Parker, and repairs are no longer cost-effective. This article appeared on the 2018 Annual Town Meeting in May, but was passed over because the article was misprinted in the warrant.

Resident Barbara Sanderson asked why municipal water consumers should be forced to buy a truck to plow town streets, but Finance Director Judy Mooney explained that the Water Department truck only plows areas related to the department, such as water pumping stations.

The funds will come from the Water Department's Retained Earnings Account, which currently holds $900,606, Mooney said.

"Does that mean that we're being overcharged for our water?" Sanderson asked, prompting some laughter.

"No," said Mooney. "You want to make sure that you have your retained earnings in there so that you don't have to have a huge increase in your water rates."

The Finance Committee did recommend the article because there are sufficient funds to pay for it.

Article 4 appropriates $160,000 for a new dump truck with a plow and sander for the Department of Public Works. The request for a larger truck to replace a smaller truck was backed by a need to hold larger loads of sand and salt so the truck would not have to return to the Benson Brook Road DPW site to reload.

Finance Committee Chairman Peter Winters said the committee opposed the article, adding, "It's smarter to get a smaller truck - less money, and come back to the barn when you need to and only sand when you absolutely need to."

Additional private roads that were accepted by town meeting voters during a prior town meeting have resulted in a higher demand for snow and ice removal, said Interim DPW Superintendent Jonathan Henry. A resident pointed out that the Town contracts a third party to plow and sand roads in Marion, and wondered why contracted help and a new large-size truck would be needed.

"It's a long-established process," said Henry, specifying that contractors are assigned a smaller number of roads. "Even with four large plows and four sanders, we don't have enough to cover the town and do it efficiently, so we have hired private people to do that ... and we will continue to do so."

Resident Lee Vulgaris supported the article, saying, "It seems to me that if you have department heads that you really trust and know what they're doing, if they recommend something ... then I would just go along with it."

Article 5 appropriates $50,000 for a used six-wheel dump truck with plow and sander for the DPW. The new truck, although used, is in "immaculate condition," Henry stated, and should last at least ten years.

FinCom recommended the article "because it represents a low-priced alternative to a new vehicle,"

Article 8 was a follow-up to the new Adult Use Marijuana Establishments Bylaw, which inserts "adult use marijuana establishments" to the "other uses" section of the Zoning Bylaw.

Article 9 adds a new section "J" to the Zoning Bylaw Additional Special Permit Regulations to include "adult use of marijuana."

Article 10 amended the Dog Control Bylaw by specifying that kennels classified as "hobby" or "commercial" needed special permits from the Zoning Board of Appeals for the keeping of five to 10 dogs for housing, grooming, breeding, boarding, and training, and 11 or more dogs for the same, respectively.

"Household" kennels were removed from the article language, allowing up to four dogs to be kept at a residence.

Article 11, a follow-up to the Dog Control Bylaw kennel amendment, inserts two new line items – "kennel, commercial" and "kennel, hobby" into the Zoning Bylaw's Table of Principal Uses.

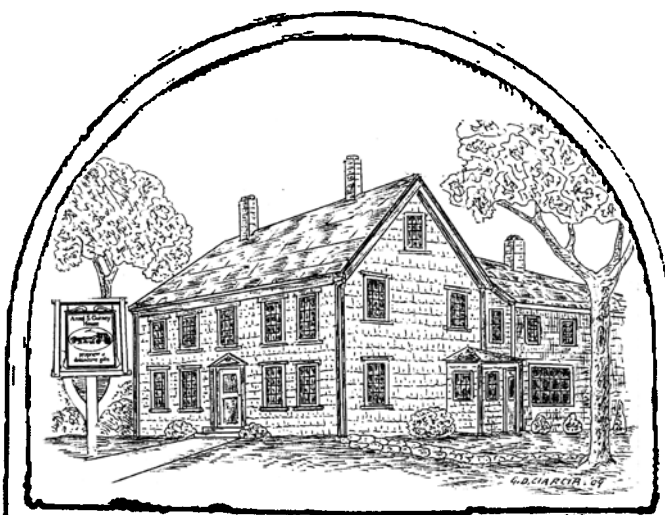

Article 12 amends the Zoning Bylaw by adding a section "G" stipulating that a hobby or commercial kennel special permit may be granted by the Zoning Board of Appeals, so long as the following criteria are met: "The structure will provide the basic standards of cleanliness and proper care and confinement of said dogs on the premises," and "The structure will not result in a health hazard or be injurious to the health of the neighbors by reason of prospective noise or otherwise."

Another Solar Developer Presents Proposal

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

The next open field in Rochester slated for a solar farm is at 0 Old Middleboro Road, and developer Solar MA Project Management, LLC approached the Rochester Planning Board on October 23 to informally discuss the plan.

Pedro Rodriguez, project manager for Seaboard Solar, and Austin Turner, engineer for Bohler Engineering, have been working on a plan for a solar array field at the 140-acre parcel for over a year now, and sought further feedback on the latest plan before the forthcoming application.

Turner said he attended a technical meeting with Town Planner Steve Starrett and a small committee consisting of an engineer and board members last month, and the plan he discussed Tuesday night was an evolved plan based on feedback the committee generated. Turner has also been working closely with Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon on behalf of the Conservation Commission to delineate the wetlands line and establishing the required buffers so the array layout could be proposed.

Turner referred to an ancient way at the site and how he plans to reroute the road at one point around the perimeter of the arrays to maintain access to Old Middleboro Road from Walnut Plain Road.

The layout and arrangement of the arrays presented that night "has science behind it," said Turner, after working with the Natural Heritage & Endangered Species Program and its feedback. The arrays will occupy 25-30 acres of the available 140, and, based on Natural Heritage's input, the arrays were shifted to accommodate a proposed conservation restriction or land donation to the Town of Rochester.

Turner and Rodriguez thought they had a good, conforming configuration worked out until Planning Board Chairman Arnie Johnson asked about the setbacks from the arrays to the property lines and abutting roadways. Turner said the arrays would be 40 feet from the property line, but, as Johnson promptly pointed out, the solar bylaw amended by Town Meeting in May made the setback 100 feet

"And you need to be 300 feet off Old Middleboro Road, so I think that's gonna change the layout a little bit," said Johnson.

The plan that night had the arrays at 100 feet from the road. The access road in the plan was also too narrow at 12 feet, with the new solar bylaw requiring a minimum of 16 feet. Furthermore, Johnson said, according to town counsel, the ancient way cannot be rerouted unless the solar developer's counsel can show proof that there is no deeded access to the ancient way.

Rodriguez explained that his understanding was that all that was needed was maintaining an access way from Walnut Plain Road to Old Middleboro Road.

"You better have your attorney call ours because we can't take that plan as it is, based on our opinion," said Johnson. And with the panels currently placed on two separate lots, an Approval Not Required application would be needed.

As for Natural Heritage, Johnson, said, "We don't do anything until Natural Heritage rules."

"We actually have all that together already," Rodriguez replied.

Still, they might need an amended plan based on the setbacks, said Johnson.

Planning Board member Chris Silveira wondered, if the ancient way was used as frontage for a house constructed nearby, then don't the panels have to be 300 feet from that public access way?

According to Rodriguez, his attorney said the way was not a public road and not a private road, either, but simply "an ancient way and easement."

"I think your attorney's going to have to submit some narrative on that for our counsel to review that," said Johnson. "I would suggest, before you submit a filing, we're going to have to have this ancient way thing resolved because it would radically change the layout."

Starrett pointed out, "You guys have 140 acres. ... You have a lot of flexibility."

However, Turner said, Natural Heritage has specific areas it wants to preserve.

"That 140 acres becomes very small very, very quick," Turner said.

Rodriguez asked for a printed copy of the bylaw, since it had not yet been physically presented to him.

This would be the first solar project to come before the board since the bylaw was amended in May.

"There may be others," said Johnson. "There are a few others out there floating around."

The project may come before the board another time before a formal application submission is made.

In other matters, Johnson made it clear to REpurpose Properties, Inc. representatives that he opposed the latest proposed solution to resolve an ongoing drainage-related property dispute, and called for a joint meeting with the Conservation Commission.

The age-restricted housing development plan proposed for 565 Rounseville Road has been held up by a dispute over an unresolved conservation order of conditions pertaining to the Plumb Corner Mall lot owned by Sophia Giannaros Daras, owner of Plumb Corner Mall.

Johnson vehemently opposed a plan to rectify the problem with an above ground open basin as opposed to an underground system, and disapproved of moving an existing playground in order to sort out that lingering issue.

"I don't support the idea of ... open drainage," said Johnson. "You need to find another way. ... [And] I don't support moving the playground. I haven't: I won't; there's no need to move that playground. ... There's plenty of property."

Johnson continued, "If this is the best you've got, then I'm out, and Gary [Florindo] doesn't support the idea of an open basin either, but he's not here and he asked me to express that."

Johnson preferred to put the basin underground, and use the existing wetlands for the overflow, which is exactly what the Conservation Commission did not approve.

"My clients want to get [this property sale] done so badly they've already signed the settlement agreement even though it's only in draft form," said seller Gibbs Bray's attorney, Peter Paul.

Developer Mike LaCava just wanted to know, "Where do we go from here? What do we do? What do you want us to do so we can just do it?" He said the Conservation Commission has told him numerous times they wouldn't approve the wetlands overflow option. "We're kind of going in circles here," he said.

"At some point, common sense has got to go into this," said Johnson. After all, for 30 years the flow into the wetlands has gone untreated. Furthermore, Johnson asked, "What happens when you turn the water off, aren't you changing the ecosystem that you're trying to protect?"

After further discussion, the board decided to work with the developer on the subdivision plan the best it could in the meantime, and meet with the Conservation Commission to discuss the matter.

The next meeting of the Rochester Planning Board is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, November 7, at 7:00 pm. The board hopes to have its meeting coincide with the Conservation Commission's scheduled for that evening. The location of the meeting will be determined at a later date.

members of the Mattapoissett Police Department as officers Justin King and Jason King were appointed sergeant and interim captain, respectively, during the Mattapoissett Board of Selectmen meeting.

Police Chief Mary Lyons said that after a promotional assessment process of the four candidates vying for promotion to sergeant, "Justin scored the highest." Justin has been on the police force since 1997.

Speaking of Jason's credentials, Lyons said, "He works with the detectives in the South Coast region and keeps the department running well." Jason has been on the police force since 1994.

Town Clerk Catherine Hueberger performed the swearing-in ceremony while Sergeant King's three children – Holden, Tristan, and Hadley – along with their cousins, Captain King's children, Caitlin and Logan, beamed with pride.

Following the swearing-in ceremony, the children pinned their fathers' uniforms with badges.

In other business, the selectmen considered a letter dated September 24 from Attorney Thomas Crotty in which he asks the board to designate him as counsel to the Mattapoissett River Valley Water Supply District (MRVWSD) as a special municipal employee.

In the letter, Crotty notes that the conflict of interest law would not strictly prohibit the designation, and that all member towns' boards of selectmen would have to do likewise. The community members to the MRVWSD are Marion, Fairhaven, and Mattapoissett. Rochester is also represented in the water district as a non-voting member.

Crotty is currently representing Fairhaven in a lawsuit against Mattapoissett.

On this point, Selectman Paul Silva commented, "Attorney Crotty has been counsel for 11 years [to the MRVWSD)], I feel it is a conflict of interest. I do not feel comfortable with his representing the water district and a party in a lawsuit against Selectman Tyler Macallister concurred with Silva, and the requested was denied.

"Now he'll have a decision to make," said Macallister.

Silva said he would advise the other towns of Mattapoisett's decision.

Town Administrator Michael Gagne reported that the Fire Station Committee chaired by Michael Hickey has been meeting weekly and will be evaluating bid proposals received for a project manager in the coming days. He also said the committee has toured fire houses in Paxton, Walpole, Carver, and Oak Bluffs so far with at least two more facility tours pending.

Chase Canopy Vaults Final Hurdle

Mattapoisett Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

Robert Field of Field Engineering represented his client, Chase Canopy, as they sought permission from the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals, and Planning Board to reconfigure their Fairhaven Road headquarters by building a new 8,000 square-foot building with other modifications to allow the business to consolidate its operation into one location.

Time was of the essence as a financial deadline in December inched closer, a deadline that required the applicant to receive all necessary local approvals before funding would be advanced.

On October 22, the final piece of the permitting puzzle was snapped into place. Field said that a long-awaited response from the Natural Heritage & Endangered Species Program had been received, and that the agency found the project, as defined, would not constitute a taking of wetlands.

The commission voted to grant the Notice of Intent application as presented with conditions, mandating that notice be given to the conservation office upon the start of construction and a copy of the conditions on site at all times to ensure the contractor adhered to the regulations.

The remaining four cases heard on this night were all represented by David Davignon of N. Douglas Schneider & Associates, Inc.

MJP Realty Trust, for property located at 2 Bay View Avenue, received a Negative determination of applicability for the installation of an outdoor shower, exterior structural improvements, removal of existing chimney, reconstruction of the roof, and relocation of a flagstone walkway.

Also receiving a Negative determination of applicability was Paul Frisco, 9 Second Street, for the relocation of an existing garage and construction of an attached garage to an existing dwelling. Davignon explained that the single-car garage would be repurposed into an accessory outbuilding, and that the majority of the work would take place in the buffer zone. Erosion control materials were included in the conditions ordered by the commission.

Patricia Cunniff, 9 Avenue A, sought permission for the abandonment of an existing cesspool and leaching field to allow for the construction of a new septic tank system. Davignon said Cunniff is selling the property and the new system would allow the new owners to make structural changes to the home in the future. The Notice of Intent filing was continued until November 14 to give Davignon time to prepare a new site plan featuring the new septic system.

Davignon also asked for a Certificate of Compliance for the same property for an expired order of conditions set for a NOI in which Davignon said no work had taken place. The commission approved the request clearing that encumbrance from the deed.

that the Indian Cove Association located on Aucoot Cove had removed an unpermitted walkway and floating dock.

Leidhold also reported that an appeal of the Conservation Commission's positive determination for the paving of Foster Street had been appealed to the Department of Environmental Protection, but that at the present time the appeal is on hold pending more documentation from the plaintiffs. She said the DEP had deemed the appeal "deficient," but was giving the plaintiffs more time to prepare their case.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Conversation Commission is scheduled for Wednesday, November 14 at 6:30 pm in the Town Hall conference room.

ZBA Approves New Boats Display

Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals

By Marilou Newell

The October 18 meeting of the Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals took a bit longer to get through, despite a short agenda portending a short meeting with only one case to be heard.

Coming before the ZBA on this night was well known local businessman Todd Rodrigues whose Yard Boss business has been situated on Route 6 since 2010 and, more recently, lots at the same location were developed sprouting the Windswept Village complex, a multi-use structure for retail shops, restaurants, and residences.

Rodrigues' application for a special permit asked the board members to allow the display of new boats on an existing new building foundation for his tenant George Fearons' yacht brokerage. Fearon, a Mattapoisett resident from the Bay Club community, currently rents space in Rodrigues' Yard Boss property from which he conducts his selling activities for Oyster Harbor Marine.

The new building foundation was poured when Windswept Village Phase 1 was under construction, in anticipation of future build-out. The site is a raw, undeveloped parcel with frontage on Route 6.

Rodrigues explained that only new vessels would be on display, and none would contain hazardous fuels or oils. Propellers would not be attached, and no more than five 30-foot boats would be on the property at any given time.

Rodrigues went on to say that the area would be landscaped in keeping with the rest of the finished spaces, and no other related business activities other than selling boats would take place on site.

"We live in a boating community. ... It's a great chance to display Mattapoisett that way, a great opportunity for Mattapoisett," said Rodrigues.

There was some confusion on the part of the ZBA when one member thought the applicant was seeking to build a structure to house the boats, questioning the appropriateness of placing boats out in the open where children might be drawn to explore and climb on them.

Currently the zoning bylaw only allows boats to be warehoused in the Industrial district, noted ZBA member Gene Deslander.

Rodrigues said it was tough for Fearon to sell boats without having some on location, and that Fearon's brokerage business, being run out of the Yard Boss structure, was within his right.

After some discussion on the height and overall size of the boats in question, more general impressions were shared when ZBA member Mary Ann Brogan demurred that the area would look "ugly."

Chairman Susan Akin told Rodrigues that, if and when he planned to house the boats on the site, he would have to return to the ZBA with a new permit request.

But Deslanders continued to express his concern about children, saying of Windswept Village, "When you came before the board, you said children may live in the building, [and] this may be an attractive hazard for children."

However, ZBA member Kenneth Pacheco wondered, "What is the big danger?"

Fearon said, "We live in Mattapoisett where every other yard has a boat in it," a comment that Pacheco agreed with.

Brogan asked if he would put up fencing. Rodrigues said no, but the area would be attractively landscaped.

"I don't think I'm ready to give you carte blanche," Deslanders said.

Deslanders asked why he didn't put the brokerage business at the Industrial Park, and Rodrigues responded that they didn't want to do that. The Route 6 location was preferred.

"Zoning isn't to accommodate you; you have to accommodate zoning," Brogan said.

Pacheco again asserted, "Boats are everywhere."

ZBA member Colby Rottler supported the request, saying the Mattapoisett Boat Yard had boats out in the open, and added, "Yard Boss has been remarkable, always looks nice, it's good for the community, new businesses."

But Borgan questioned if Fearon was a registered business owner in the town. After establishing that Fearon was a tenant of Rodrigues and not a business owner in the community, Borgan said, "His business doesn't pay taxes to Mattapoisett."

When the vote was cast, the sought-after Special Permit was granted 3-2, with Borgan and Delanders dissenting.

The permit carries stipulations that any changes to the site, number of boats, or use of the property will require a new application.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals is scheduled for November 15 at 6:00 pm in the Town Hall conference room if there are hearings scheduled.

My dog was in the garage with me as I was changing the anti-freeze in my car. He sniffed the old antifreeze and was going to drink it. I stopped him. Would it make him sick?

Antifreeze (ethylene Glycol) has a sweet smell that is, unfortunately, attractive to dogs. It can cause kidney failure if the dog is not treated within 4-6 hours after consuming the poison. If you see your dog or cat drinking antifreeze, take him to your veterinarian immediately.

a deliberate move to bring all schools K-12 into alignment as elementary students advance into the regional schools.

Rivet said year one for 21st Century learning will start with getting the message out to teachers, "What is 21st Century learning?" said Rivet.

Next year, Rivet said, "The goal will be for that to be part of our goals; however, we have overachievers in our building who are already doing that."

Like other schools' plans, there is a focus of the "four Cs": creativity, critical thinking, collaboration, and communication, with teachers engaging in discussion on the four Cs as part of a professional development piece during staff meetings. Next year, the school will implement strategies on how to further student progress in each of the four areas.

Technology is another vital part of the goal, but as Rivet explained, "We've hit a bit of a snag in getting our technology integrationist."

Rivet said the last person offered the position "respectfully declined." "We're still working on it."

In the meantime, other teachers have stepped up to assess how the school can "infuse technology into the coursework," as Rivet put it, and then implement measures the second year.

For the global citizenship goal, teachers will begin by taking inventory of all technology and applications pertaining to this area before deciding which actions to take in year two, including a civics literacy and citizenship focus "... and continue to broaden the scope for both teachers and students," said Rivet.

defamation training for all teachers and staff, and the development of an action plan to move forward the following year with sensitivity training for staff.

"We want to ensure the implementation of responsive classroom [in] grades K through 6," Rivet continued, with training already underway and an eventual 100 percent training of all staff the second year.

Behavior management is also slated for focus with the school exploring evidence-based discipline practices with the assistance of the schools BCBA and school psychologist.

The following year, Rivet said a review of the code of conduct in the student handbook would lead to alignment with the other Tri-Town schools.

Rivet also wants to explore other ways the school can encourage family engagement outside its ANCHOR program and incorporate new actions the second year of the plan.

Safety and security is also part of this area of the plan, and the school will continue to meet with police and fire to talk about ways to enhance security and what steps to take in year two of the plan and update and implement best practices.

"It's very comprehensive: it's a lot of work," said School Committee Chairman Christine Marcolini. "It's a good plan for the next two years."

The next meeting of the Marion School Committee is scheduled for November 28 at 6:30 pm at Sippican School.

Bulldogs Set to Start Football Postseason

High School Sports Update

By Nick Friar

The Bulldogs carry their undefeated season into the postseason after clinching the South Coast Conference crown on Friday with their 40-33 win over the SCC Small Champion Case Cardinals. Old Rochester Regional, ranked first in Division 6 South, will host No. 8 Bishop Stang on Friday at 7:00 pm.

Coming off their closest game of the season, the Bulldogs are not only assessing their opponents, but also making adjustments to their own game. Although ORR enters the contest as the favorite due to their superior record (7-0), the Spartans (4-3) have faced challenging competition every step of the way.

"We have to get a lot better everywhere to be successful in this game," ORR football coach Justin Kogler said. "We're still not as good as we can be – not even close yet. We're still making mistakes, so we have to tighten some things up. We'll have to play really well to beat them."

Although ORR volleyball was most recently on the wrong end of a 3-0 finish against New Bedford, the Bulldogs were coming off wins over Case (3-0), Falmouth (3-2), and Tabor (3-2). In the win over Case, Natalia Wierzbicki had 10 kills, nine digs, and four blocks. She also had 16 kills and six blocks against Falmouth.

Delaney Soucy was 16 for 17 passing and had 25 digs against Case and went 45 for 50 passing against Falmouth and had 35 digs. Maggie Brogioli had 13 kills and three blocks against Falmouth, and Micheline Ditata had 37 assists.

"The difference between our team earlier in the season and now is that we always knew we had great individual talent, but these last two weeks, we're really started coming together as a team in all facets of the game," Old Rochester coach Jimmy Oliveira said following the win over Falmouth. "We're starting to be a cohesive group. Beating those two teams this week will definitely give the team some confidence."

Old Colony

Oddly enough, Old Colony football starts tournament play in the Div. 8 South Sectionals against the very same team they face to end the regular season, Upper Cape Cod Tech.

No. 2 Upper Cape (5-2) won their previous meeting 13-6, but the Cougars were only a few plays away from flipping the script.

"It's interesting, this is the third year in a row we've gotten in the playoffs and played an opponent we've already played in the season. Interesting draw," Old Colony coach Brandon Mendez said. "It's going to be a challenge; they're a good football team. I think our guys are going to be excited to have another chance, but it's certainly not going to be easy."

Given No. 7 Old Colony (4-3) hasn't surrendered more than 14 points in a game this season, there's still a chance to upset the Rams. But the offense will need to make a few changes if that's going to happen.

"We stalled out a few times (on offense)," Mendez said. "Plus, there will be adjustments. I'm sure they'll make adjustments, too. Little things, though. I'm sure it will be a very similar type of game. On the defensive side of the ball, we had a very, very good day. We only let up two long runs and that was really the difference in the game. On the offensive side of the ball, we need to execute better and finish off drives."

Tabor Academy

Tabor field hockey had no trouble handling St. George's School in their recent matchup, winning 7-0 on Saturday. Ashley Clark led the Seawolves with three goals in the win. Ava Jadul, Olivia O'Brien, Cindy Giandomenico, and Annie Berry each had one goal apiece in the win, as well. Christine Steege finished with three saves in her shutout in net.

Dear Editor,

The word "membership" has become a conundrum for me over the past few years even though the definition of membership is pretty straightforward. Most of us experience membership from a pretty young age. How many of us were in a cub scout or brownie troop? We learned early on to accept and expect when we become a member of a club, group, or organization that there will be responsibilities connected with that privilege. We are aware of those things in advance and we either accept those commitments or we don't join.

stuff more than most folks, but that doesn't negate the truth of my observation. Most churches have a large percentage of families on the church roster who do not support the church with an annual pledge, but they expect to reap the benefit of church services when they need the church in emergencies, or for baptisms, confirmations, weddings, and funerals. In their minds, they consider themselves church members, but they treat the church like a Cumberland Farms store. When they need something, they go and get it and walk out. In other words, they only pay fees or honorariums for church services used at the time and do not make an annual pledge. Let's look at this another way. Golf clubs require annual dues and they charge green fees to members whenever they play the course. What is the difference in a church? Churches, like golf clubs, have salaries to pay, heat and air conditioning bills, building and property maintenance, worship and programs costs. Churches use pledges to pay those expenses just as clubs use membership fees. So why do folks see it differently?

Perhaps the word "pledge" is where the breakdown begins. To officially be registered as a member of a church, one must make an annual pledge; but the beauty of pledging is that there is no set amount required. A member can make an annual pledge $10 a year or $25,000. It's up to the individual or family to decide what the right amount should be. In other words, it's affordable for everyone. So why do so many bypass this obligation altogether? Is it because they don't go to church regularly and therefore feel they are exempt? Maybe people think if they pledge, they are obligated to attend church regularly and be active in the church. Of course, this is the church's hope, but it is not a requirement any more than having to play a certain amount of golf as a golf club member. Your participation is up to you. What a pledge ensures is that the church is there for you when you need it and you've earned the right to walk in for any reason at any time.

May I suggest that if there is a local church that you see as your "go to" place for whatever services you might need now or anticipate going forward, you should make an annual pledge. Take a leap of faith, become a church member, and let God do the rest. The benefits are immeasurable.

Respectfully submitted,

Mallory Waterman

OBITUARIES

Jen Forker, a native of Rochester, MA, left this earth on October 22, 2018, surrounded by her loving family whom she called her team. Not one to be wordy, Jen would politely yet strongly pass on the need for a summary of her life in the form of an obituary. Instead, she'd prefer to note the things that made her life well lived.

- Be kind and treat others the way you want to be treated.

- Just be happy.

- Travel the world and write your own adventures.

- Love and be loved. I'm the luckiest because I was, and that is enough.

In lieu of cards, give hugs to your loved ones. In place of flowers, donations may be made to the Pan Mass Challenge in honor of those who fought valiantly and those who continue to thrive.

A Celebration of Life will be held at the Arch of the Meadow, 332 Mendell Rd., Rochester MA on Saturday November 3rd at 1PM

MOVIE REVIEW

Superpower

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Code Name: Dynastud. Starring Anthony Gaudette and Derek Laurendeau. Directed by Richard Griffin. Running time: 95 minutes. New England premiere at Route One Cinema Pub in North Attleboro, November 4 at 5:30 pm and 8:00 pm.

"My penis was a lethal weapon," narrates the titular hero of Code Name: Dynastud, "and I had a license to thrill." This is the sort of freewheeling dialogue you can expect from this movie and from many of Richard Griffin's movies in general. Griffin is the Rhode Island bad boy responsible for making serious films (Long Night in a Dead City, Flesh for the Inferno) and queer-positive farces (last year's Strapped for Danger and definitely this movie). Sometimes the sharpest response to a repressive situation is laughter, and in Dynastud Griffin gays it up bigly in the face of a regime that just announced they're looking to redefine transgender out of existence, and whose vice-president gladly speaks at the anti-LGBT hate gathering Values Voter Summit.

Griffin's comedic grab-bag approach, with nods to everything from James Bond opening-credits sequences to Dune to Moby Dick, probably won't win over any more bigots than a more sober-sided Oscar-season appeal to tolerance would, but it's a lot more fun. (Some may recall that Strapped for Danger was supposed to be Griffin's swan song; fortunately for us, he changed his mind.) Griffin's story here (cowritten with frequent giggling collaborators Duncan Pflaster and Lenny Schwarz) involves a scrawny farm-raised lad who receives superpowers and becomes Dynastud (Anthony Gaudette), both blessed with fabulous good looks and cursed with the tendency to make his sexual partners' heads explode when he achieves orgasm. Dynastud's new partner in crimefighting — the Robin to his Batman, if you will — is Bart (Derek Laurendeau), a bespectacled dude punished for the crime of being gay in 2024 by being married off to the avidly horny daughter of the senator being groomed as the next president.

Despite the intentional clownishness (the bad dubbing in tribute to Enter the Ninja) and the continued thirst for vibrant colors (courtesy of cinematographer John Mosetich), Griffin's radicalism here makes Bruce LaBruce's callow outrages look like a kid's armpit farts. Code Name: Dynastud imagines an America left incredibly worse post-Trump — this may come to be recognized as the first post-America film. It's a cheerfully nihilistic work, with the emphasis on "cheerfully." The performers come to party, with the most vivid fun-makers being Bruce Church as the gun-toting, hateful senator and Candace Sampson as his randy spawn. I'm always happy to see Aaron Andrade barge into a Griffin shindig, and here he busts in as a MAGA agent and puts on a hilariously lofty accent. He cracked me up every time.

It's probably no accident that Griffin is hijacking traditionally macho genres (and movies by typically macho studios like Cannon) to tell lasciviously gay stories. By the same token, gay lust and affection are about the only things that don't come in for ridicule here; by rewriting/rewiring hetero fantasies, Griffin is showing the hetero audience what their unquestioned hetero entertainment looks like to everyone else. I sometimes wonder what Griffin's wilder films will look like in thirty years (assuming anyone will be around to watch them) — whether their method of flipping the script will be viewed as something that was sadly necessary in the dark ages of 2018. There may be a future in which films like Code Name: Dynastud will be seen not as gay parodies but as parodies. Part of Griffin believes in that future and works towards it. And part of him laughs in rage at the present. There's the soul of an artist in these schlock homages Griffin does, with all their jokes about schlongs and the stuff of life.

Sippican Historical Society

In 1998, the Sippican Historical Society commissioned an architectural survey of Marion's historic homes and buildings. The survey was funded one-half by the Sippican Historical Society and one-half by the Massachusetts Historical Commission. Due to the limits of funding, not all of the historic buildings were surveyed, but over 100 were catalogued and photographed. The results of the survey are in digital form on the Massachusetts Historical Commission's website and in four binders in the Sippican Historical Society's office (and at the Marion Town Clerk's office).

Marion (Old Rochester) is one of the oldest towns in the United States, and the Sippican Historical Society maintains an extensive collection of documentation on its historic buildings. The Sippican Historical Society will preview one building a week so that the residents of Marion can understand more about its unique historical architecture.

This installment features 115 Front Street. Built in 1916, St. Rita's Catholic Church is at 115 Front Street on the corner of Front and Vine Streets. It is a handsome rectangular, one-story, gable-roofed, and brick- and wood-trimmed building. Representing an interesting mix of the Classical Revival and Craftsman styles, the Front Street side of the building features three entrances that are recessed behind an entrance porch with columns. Its side walls are pierced by clear and stained-glass windows, and a small dome cupola bearing a cross rises from the eastern end of the roof. The exposed rafters of the eaves illustrate the Craftsman style.

born and raised in Marion. After a teaching career in Marion, she married Stephen Taber, a clock maker, and moved to New Bedford when she was 33 years old. After Stephen and their three children died, she returned to her hometown in 1870 when she was 79 years old and decided to put "some snap into her village." Today, she is regarded as Marion's Fairy Godmother, because she used the money she had wisely invested in mills, whaling ships, and railroads to build six important buildings for the people of Marion. Five of those buildings remain today: Town House (original Tabor Academy), Elizabeth Taber Library and Natural History Museum, Taber Hall, Congregational Chapel and Music Hall.

The Celebrate Elizabeth Taber Committee hopes to educate the community about Elizabeth Taber's life and her significant contributions to Marion by commissioning a life-size bronze statue of her to be placed in a prominent location for all to enjoy. This celebration of her life will be coordinated with the 100th anniversary in 2020 of the 19th Amendment giving women the right to vote and the Lighting the Way project in New Bedford to honor remarkable women who have made a significant impact on their SouthCoast communities.

The Sippican Historical Society will match all donations to the project up to $50,000 and Tabor Academy has already made a significant leadership gift to honor the founder of the school. It is anticipated that the cost of the statue, landscaping, and a maintenance fund will be approximately $150,000 to be raised through a town-wide fundraising campaign. It is hoped that everyone in the Marion community will show an interest in supporting this worthy historic project.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A colleague might offer to open a door for you professionally. But before you walk through it, be sure this "favor" isn't attached to an obligation you might find difficult to discharge.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your creativity, your persistence and your reliability could lead to a major career shift. Be sure to use that other Taurean trait, your practicality, when discussing what the job offers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A changing situation might require some adjustments you might not have been prepared to make. However, flexibility in this matter could be the best course to follow at this time.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're in a period of fluctuating moods, which is not unusual for the Moon Child. Your emotions stabilize by the 26th. Meanwhile, try to hold off making major decisions until then.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) That keen sense of perception helps you hunt down those minute details that others overlook. And, of course, your Leonine ego will accept the expected praise with good grace.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful not to be confrontational when raising a work-related issue. Better to make a request than a demand. And, of course, be prepared to back up your case with facts.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your ego might be hurt when a colleague turns down your offer to help. But accept it as a rejection of your offer, not of you. A friend from the past could re-emerge by week's end.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A flow of positive energy turns a work project you didn't want to do into something you actually love doing. Now, take that attitude into your social, intimate life -- and enjoy what follows.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Working hard to meet your professional goals is fine. But don't neglect your private life, especially where it concerns your more cherished relationships.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) "Patience" remains the key word in dealing with an emotionally sensitive situation involving a close friend or family member. Help comes your way by week's end.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) With new information coming in, it's a good time to rethink some of your goals without taking suggestions from others, no matter how well-meaning they might be.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Making progress on your project is relatively easy in the early part of the week. A problem could arise midweek. But all goes swimmingly once it's resolved.

BORN THIS WEEK: Holding fast to your principles, no matter what, inspires others to follow your example.

Tabor to Break Ground on New Dormitory

At their fall meeting on October 13, Tabor Academy's Board of Trustees voted unanimously to forge ahead on the construction of Cornelia Hall, a new dormitory set to break ground by the end of the month.

With the planning and permitting process completed last spring with the Town of Marion's Planning Board, Cornelia Hall came off the drawing boards and into reality when the trustees voted to commence construction in hopes of having the building envelope closed up before winter. The new facility forwards Tabor's goals of providing excellent educational and residential life facilities throughout campus.

Cornelia Hall, to be located along Spring Street adjacent to Matsumura House, constructed in 2015, will improve the residential experience of students and generate efficiencies across campus.

Rather than build a copy of Matsumura House, the school charged Will Saltonstall '82, principal of Saltonstall Architects, to seek insights from a faculty committee and the inhabitants of Matsumura House to improve on his popular original design. "We designed the new dorm along similar lines, but with slightly narrower hallways and a more defined common area based on the feedback from students and faculty. The two-story entry, large windows, hanging hallway, and bright accent colors mirror the open feeling of Matsumura House, features everyone has enjoyed. Quiet study nooks and a café area, popular features among students, will also be included in Cornelia Hall," reported Saltonstall.

"The new dormitory marks some excellent momentum in our efforts to improve residential facilities at Tabor," said Dean of Students, Tim Cleary. "Cornelia Hall provides yet another modern residential facility with generous common areas where students can interact with faculty and friends in a learning living community."

All in all, Cornelia Hall provides Tabor with many options for improving housing for faculty and students across campus now and into the future.

Take Time to Remember on November 11

The peaceful and democratic society we enjoy was created by the efforts and sacrifices of generations of Americans who have put their lives on the line in the cause of peace and freedom around the world. Remembering and learning all that Veterans have sacrificed helps us better understand our nation's history and its future.

At the end of the World War I, many people heard about the Armistice through bells ringing. When the bells rang out on the 11th month of the 11th day on the 11th hour in 1918, they announced the end of the most catastrophic war the world had yet seen. This year, 2018, marks the centenary of the Armistice, now called Veterans Day.

To collectively remember and honor those veterans who put their lives on the line on the battle field, the Mattapoisett Women's Club launched a "Veterans Day Bells of Remembrance" project in 2017 to rekindle that spirit of togetherness. The Bells of Remembrance project is asking communities throughout Massachusetts to pause for a minute of silence and mark the centenary of the Armistice by ringing church and municipal bells on the 11th month of the 11th day on the 11th hour. Last year, several churches and municipal buildings from Wareham, Fairhaven, Marion, and Mattapoisett participated by ringing their bells and this year many more Massachusetts communities will participate.

There is a special free smart phone app "Bells of Peace Participation" that is available from iTunes and DAD, CAN YOU GET ALL YOUR WEIRDO FRIENDS OUT OF YOUR CAR? I'VE GOT A DATE.

Android stores and that may be downloaded onto your smart phone. The app has a built-in countdown timer and will toll 21 times on 11/11/11 in remembrance of this very special moment when the fighting stopped. Go to ww1cc.org/YourAce on your smart phones and the site will direct you how to set up Bells of Peace.

The Mattapoissett Woman's Club has resolved to promote Bells of Remembrance on November 11 to remind the public of that Armistice Day peace pledge. We are also asking church members either in their bulletins or from the pulpit, to work for peace. One hundred years after the first Armistice Day, and given the special significance of this year, 2018, the commemoration takes on added importance. Let's pause for a minute of silence and ring those bells on the 11th month of the 11th day on the 11th hour to commemorate the end of the "War to end all wars!" and recapture peace on 11/11/11.

Scouting for Food

Boy Scout Troop 53 will be taking part in the Council-wide Scouting for Food drive. Narragansett Council Scouting for Food through 31 consecutive years has provided 9.2 million pounds of food to those in need. Thank you for supporting this "do a good turn daily" event.

How much would you pay for a white painting? Would it matter who the painter was? Would it be art? One of Marc's best friends, Serge, has just bought a very expensive painting. It's about five feet by four, all white with white diagonal lines. To Marc, the painting is a joke, but Serge insists Marc doesn't have the proper standard to judge the work. Another friend, Ivan, though burdened by his own problems, allows himself to be pulled into this disagreement. Eager to please, Yvan tells Serge he likes the painting. Lines are drawn and these old friends square off over the canvas, using it as an excuse to relentlessly batter one another over various failures. As their arguments become less theoretical and more personal, they border on destroying their friendships.

The cast includes Scott Fishman as Marc, Tony Oliva as Serge, and Lee Bonia as Yvan. Those behind the production include Director Linda Costa, Stage Manager Susan Sullivan, Sound & Lighting Manager Steven McManus, and Set & Tech Assistant Geoffrey Sullivan.

Tickets ($15 for MAC members, $18 for non-members) may be purchased during regular hours in person (Tue-Fri 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm, Sat 10:00 am – 2:00

The sale takes place in the Parish Hall of St. Gabriel's Church, located at 124 Front St. in Marion, and will feature furniture, rugs, gift items, sporting equipment, antiques, housewares, tools, a Christmas room, and much more. This is our 8th annual event, and it just keeps getting better each year - shop early for the best selection. The choir will also host a food sale at the same location, so plan to come and spend some time browsing and picking up some delicious baked goods, soups, and casseroles. Friends of the Mattapoisett Council on Aging

The Friends of the Mattapoisett Council on Aging (FOTMCOA), a non-profit, non-governmental group, has been aiding COA programs and supplementing the needs of senior citizens in the community for many years. During that time, the FOTMCOA has purchased furnishings, appliances, and televisions that the COA has used in its social rooms for the benefit of seniors frequenting the COA.

In the community, the FOTMCOA has provided financial support to seniors in need of such items as a new

The group also sponsors the monthly COA newsletter "Seasonings," as well as hosting various special event luncheons throughout the year giving seniors the opportunity met up with other seniors for a bit of fun and food, social emotional support enriching the lives of Mattapoisett's senior population.

The fundraising work of the FOTMCOA supports COA programs, education, and other needs for which public funds are either not available or need supplementing.

Due to a decrease in membership, new members are now urgently needed to carry on the mission of the FOTMCOA.

Can you help? If you can share an hour once a month to attend the FOTMCOA meeting or wish to assist in any way possible, please contact Anne Bartnowski at 508-758-4603 or email at annebartswife@yahoo.com.

A Powerful Prayer to the Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so I can attain my goals, you who give me the divine gifts to forgive and forget all evil against me, in this short prayer to thank you for all things and confirm once again that I never want to Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine.

Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. The favor requested will be granted. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted. Don't mention the favor. Only your initials shall appear at the bottom. J.F.S.

through the years can you recall?

Learn more! Starting with the beginning of photography, many important moments in history are revealed, recorded by well-known photographers in a fast-moving program, ending at the pre-digital era.

Researched and compiled by Waring, compelling images are shown, from bold and graphic, to ethereal and translucent, which speak to and about emotions from heartache to ecstasy.

Waring's passion for photography began at childhood, a college fine arts degree, and studies with the most highly respected photographic portrait artists through the country. Having been a certified professional photographer for twenty-five years creating children, family, mayors, and clergy portraits, her three grandchildren through the years are well documented. Currently Waring creates mixed media portraits of "best friends" - pets!
